MEMORANDUM FOR: Mr. James B. Lay, Jr.
Executive Secretary
National Security Council

SUBJECT : Recommendation for Award of the National Security Medal to [redacted]

25X1

REFERENCE : Memo dtd 20 Mar 56 to DCI from Exec. Sec., NSC, same subject, with attached letter dtd 19 Mar 56 to Exec. Sec., NSC, from Assist. Sec. of Defense, same subject, with attached recommendations

1. The recommendation that [redacted] be awarded the National Security Medal has been given the most careful consideration by our Honor Awards Board. The conclusion reached by the Board was that while the service rendered by [redacted] certainly warrants recognition it does not meet the standards established for the National Security Medal.

2. It has occurred to us you may wish to suggest to the Department of the Army that [redacted] be considered for one of the several awards which that Department presents to its civilians. If, for some reason, the Army is unable to take this action, we will be glad to entertain a recommendation that [redacted] be granted a Central Intelligence Agency award. A draft that you may find suitable for expressing this view is attached.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Assistant Secretary of Defense
(Manpower, Personnel and Reserve)

SUBJECT : Recommendation for Award of the National Security Medal

It is with regret that I return the attached recommendation for award of the National Security Medal to Miss [] 25X1 with the advice that [] service, while of great value, 25X1 does not meet the standards established for award of the National Security Medal. However, [] status as a civilian em- 25X1 ployee of the Department of the Army suggests that the Secretary of the Army may wish to consider her for one of the several awards which that Department presents to its civilians. In the event that this action is infeasible, the Director of Central Intelligence has indicated to me that he will be glad to consider a recommendation that the contribution of [] be recognized by the presenta- 25X1 tion of an appropriate Central Intelligence Agency award.
